GREENLEE'S NEW DIGITAL MULTIMETER IS A FIT IN ANY END-USERS POCKET

ROCKFORD, Ill. —Take an inventory of the items in your pocket, a pen, pencil, non-contact voltage detector and now a PDMM-20 pocket multimeter. Greenlee's new PDMM-20 is an autofunction, low impedance multimeter designed with a safety rating of Category III 300V and with its autoranging function that provides hassle free automatic measurement of voltage and resistance.

The non-contact voltage detection function will identify live lines without contacting conductors. For added safety, the end-user does not have to switch a dial or worry about selecting the incorrect function. The PDMM-20 sophisticated microprocessor chip technology knows what is being measured. The low impedance feature eliminates stray or "ghost" voltage readings.

The PDMM-20 comes with an intelligent auto-off function for longer batter life and a low battery indicator as well. The PDMM-20 has an audible continuity test for easy test taking and reading a 6000-count LCD panel for high resolution for easy measurement reading.

Just like all Greenlee test and measurement products, the compact and lightweight PDMM-20 is backed by a Lifetime Limited Warranty.
